Safety of the High School Building.
The public schools opened to-day. The forencon attendance at the high school, as compared with the opening days of previous years, indicated a larger attendance at the school this year than last. This fact shows the public believe the building to be secure.

will be put on to accommodate steadily increasing business.

The C., H. & I. are making a bold strike for Indianapolis business. L. W. Buckmaster, local passenger agent, has been appointed superintendent. Since the Cincinnait pool was breken the C., H. & I. has steadily gained in business, and with Mr. Buckmaster's coming to the city the passenger traffic has steadily improved. A new impetus will result from the appointment of a superintendent for the division.

The Twentieth ward democrats have nominated Henry W. Lant for council.
The Twenty-first ward democrats have nominated Charles E. Clark for council.
The Second ward republicans by the vote of 276 to 237, chose George W. Spahr as their candidate for council over Isase Herr. This was the second primary to make the nomination, the first resulting in a tie.
In the first aldermanic district Saturday night the republican convention nominated H. J. Prier by a vote of 27, and Thomas J. Endsley by a vote of 24, as aldermanic candidates. Mr. Hamilton, the present incumbent, only received nine votes.

KING CORN.

It Depends upon the Frost Whether the Crop is 1,400,000,000 or 1,800,-000,000 Bushels.

The October Option has Advanced 3 1-4 Cents Friday-Details of the Dispatches.

CHICAGO, September 10.-The Tribune has reports from points in the corn-raising areas of the United States, showing the condition and prospects of the coming crop as far as could be ascertained by correspondents. It says:

"From these and some other data we may infer that the crop, as a whole, is by no means safe. Roughly speaking we may say that the corn grown on the area southwest of a line drawn through Rock Island Ill., and Louisville, Ky., is practically out of danger from frost; while all situated on the northwest side of that line is yet in peril. There west side of that line is yet in peril. There is, however, little danger of speedy frost in the southern part of the latter area, while in the northern portions there is grave reason to apprehend a temperature low enough to prevent the ripening of many millions of bushels of corn. We may regard about one-half of the crop as practically assured. For the rest its fate yet lies trembling in the balance, unless a freeze last night after the article was written has verified the dire forebodings of those who yesterday prophesied that scores of thousands of acres of corn land will be black to-day. Still, speaking roughly, we may say that

The will of Eli Sanders, of Valley Mills, was probated to-day. He leaves his property to his wife and children and names William Sanders as his executor. porated under the state laws.

Highwaymen robbed Frank S. Jared of $55, on Saturday, about midnight, at the corner of Prospect and Linden streets. Mr. Jared was returning from the concert when four men, one of them colored, emerged from the tail weeds and held him up with the above of corn land will be black to-day. Still, speaking roughly, we may say that there is new a crop of 1,400,000,000 bushels of corn assured, and that for each week from now that a destructive frost is withheld 150,000,000 bushels more will be added to that aggregate. That would be equal to 1,700,000,000 bushels by the date of the autumnal equinox, and 2,000,000,000 if the frost holds off till the end of the first week in October. Judging from present indications, the last named quantity is too much to be expected."

Little Damage in Iowa.

Little Damage in Iowa.

Iowa City, September 10.—A heavy frost fell Sunday morning but did little damage to corn in this vicinity.

Muscatine, Ia., September 10.—A slight frost here Saturday and Sunday night. Damage generally is slight, but on some low ground the corn was considerably injured.

DES Moines, Ia., September 10.—Only a slight frost Sunday morning in this section. Corn was not materially injured. Tomatoes, sweet potatoes and pumpkin vines didn't fare as well. No frost Sunday night.

Dublegue, September 10.—Frost on Satur-

The state fair opens two weeks from to-day and the amount of space taken for ex-hibits indicates unusual interest. For Tues-day, Indianapolis day, a $100 purse has been offered for local trotters driven by the own-ers. Also, $50 in base ball premiums will be awarded. The women's state fair associa-tion will meet to-morrow to perfect arrange-ments for exhibits. Dubuque, September 10.—Frost on Satururday night nipped the vines in this vicinity, but so far as heard, it has not seriously injured the fruit. Corn is not injured, unless it is a little in the valley, and that not to any extent. The average, it is believed, is by no means as seriously hurt as was expected, and crops, as a whole, have received little injury. No frost last night.

Kentucky Tobacco Injured. Kentucky Tobseco Injured.

CINCINNATI, September 10.—Frost is reported very generally throughout Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky the past two mornings.

Opinion varies as to its effect on corn. A report from Kentucky says all the tobocco on the lower grounds and creek bottoms is ruined. Vegetables everywhere are injured. The weather is warmer to-day.

In Michigan. In Michigan.

DETROIT, Mich, September 10.—Frost was quite general throughout, Michigan, last night. Reports don't indicate a heavy character, but sufficient to cut down partly grown vegetables, and injured the corn somewhat. The latter, it is thought, will not be account injured.

The opinion of the architects who have examined and repaired the high school building, that it is now entirely safe, has given occasion for many persons to tell what they know and think about the structure. Mr. Dakota's Crop in Good Condition HURON, D. T., September 10.—The frost was light, and did but little damage in this section. Two-thirds of the corn crop is matured, while the greater portion of the remainder is not injured. Bohlen, one of the architects employed in supervising the repairs, this morning said that new piers on the ground floor and new anchors and girders above have new anchors and girders above have been placed, and he is entirely satisfied that the building is perfectly safe for use. He made it known to the commissioners that he would be willing, if desirable, to load the building with ten times the weight that will ever be placed in it, and would risk his opinion that it would not give way. The commissioners, however, were satisfied that if Mr. Boblen said so the building is secure. Mr. H. L. Rust, who once taught in the building says that if two boys worked their legs, with their toes for a lever, they shook the floor so as to disturb the entire school. He did not know as to whether this shakiness CHICAGO, September 10.—The floors of 'change this morning were crowded with speculators, and trading at opening was active and full of excitement. It was exactive and full of excitement. It was expected that the reports of frost which had been coming in for the past two days would serve as an active incentive in advancing the price of corn, and this proyed, in a measure, true. October options in corn, which closed at 50 1-2c, Saturday was rapidly advanced to 52c at 10:45 o'clock, and appeared steady at that figure. This is an advance of 3 1-4c over the closing quotations for Friday, last week. Oats in sympathy-ran up to 28 1-428 3-8c for October, and 27 3-4c for year, or an advance of one cent over Saturday's closing. Wheat on the contrary eased off 3-8c. He did not know as to whether this shakiness had been obviated by the recent improvements, or not.

Stem Brothers, architects, thought that the report of the architects as published was hardly satisfactory, and while acknowling the competency of Messrs. Daggett and Bohlen, were not disposed to believe that parents could be promised absolute security for pupils who attend the school. They thought that if the council committee on insecure buildings should examine the high school building they would condemn it. In case of fire the chances for emptying the building of a large number of people would be very alim. In time of institute meetings, signs have to be put up directing strangers where to find the exits, just as the trees of an uuknown forest are blazed. One of the Stem brothers furthermore said that there was a rent between the new and old portions of the building—caused on the same principle that makes it undestrable to put new cloth into an old garment. No criticism on the ability of the supervising architects of the repairs was made by anybody, but the reporter found a good many people who would like to have the test, suggested by Mr. Bohlen, made.

Corn Crop in This Region—A Narrow Escape.

The frost predicted Saturday by the signal service office came, but without the disastrous results feared. The crop most concerned was the corn. Ordinarily at this season of the year the corn is sufficiently advanced to withstand any frost that may come, but this year the season is from two to three weeks late. In anticipation of the possible damage to the crop, railroad stocks went down Saturday, and corn went up on the markets. The lowest tempefature, Saturday night, was 40.7 and Sunday night, 42° Fortunately, the cold wave struck this region during the afternoon of Saturday, and the air at night, although the skies were dangerously clear, was too dry to cause a fatal frost. Had there been a light rain during Saturday the effect would have been most damaging. A light hoar frost was noted early Sunday morning and on boards and tin roofs a light frost was barely perceptible then and also this morning, but there was dew on vegetation. Inquiry among farmers from almost every township in the county resulted in the information that the corn was scarcely damaged, although in some localities the leaves turned black. Corn raised principally for fodder was most affected, and the fact of a frost was more apparent in the low-lands than elsewhere. Several farmers stated that the frost had rather a beneficial effect than otherwise, in that it checked the growth, thereby tending to dry it out and causing it to mature more rapidly. The fact that on Saturday the temperature in the southwest was very high, had a good deal to do with moderating the temperature bere. Since Saturday there has been a good deal of prevarication on the Board of Trade and among provision and grain speculators, according to their respective positions on the long and short side of the market. Some were declaring they had seen ice in ponds, although the temperature had at no time fallen below 40 degrees. However it was a very close shaw hereabouts and only slightly different atmospheric conditions would have ca

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1883.

DAVID P. HOLLOWAY, the ex-com of patents, and father of the well-known proprietor of the Indianapolis Times, died in Washington yesterday, ending a life full of usefulness and honor at an advanced age. Noted for many good qualities he was an exemplification of that much-abused term.

IT is unseemly to rejoice at death, but the killing of a man in Utah by giant powder which he was using at the time in violation of the law to kill fish, is such a case of poetic justice as to point to the moral, that the way of the transgressor is hard. It is that in the long run, every time, be the trans gressor a nation or an individual.

THE hyphenated political association known as Austria-Hungary gets along a good deal as did the Kilkenny cats. The proud and domineering Hungarians are recognized more from necessity than love, and the gen eral feeling aggravated by local grievance, is en in the Croatian outbreak and the tearing down of the double signs, part of which are ascribed in the Magyar language, while the lef that the government at Vienna sympathises with the anti-Magyar demonstrations, though with no foundation in fact probably answers the beat of the popular

Eyeing the portion on the aforesaid hog's plate, and that hich was left in the dish, the inquiry was, "But which is the pudding?" If Boss McLean is the pudding then Pendleton is out; but there is nothing but sympathy with Pendleton and hostility to McLean among

About the best way and the most profitable to relieve such over work would be per mission to the people to rent hoxes if they like. As it is, such an exorbitant box rent ed that practically one can not rent a letter box, and it is for the avowed purpose of breaking up the box system. It is a piece of petty tyranny as well as a closing up of a source of revenue. The governnt would make money to putting box rent at such figures as would cause them to be rented, and the people would be greatly accomodated. As it stands nobody gets any benefit, and there is presented the spectacle of the people who foot the bills being dominered over in a most unjust and impudent

THE revised figures for marriages in Paris juring 1882 are as follows: Between young during 1882 are as follows: Between young men and young women, 17,579: young men and widows, 1,506; widowers and young women, 1,710; widows and widowers, 994. The number of divorces is given at 12: The last is an instructive figure which New England papers might do will to copy.—[New York Sun.

nor adorns a tale. It is one of those half truths applied in an ad captandum way, so common, so misleading and yet generally so difficult to answer. Not to speak of New England which we believe has a unique prominence in divorce which was once supposed to belong to Indiana, the fall term of the Philadelphia divorce court opened the other day with a docket of more than a hundred cases, and here is Paris for a whole year with only twelve! But does any one mean to imply that the morals of Paris are better than those of Philadelphia, or that Parisians have a higher moral tone than New Englanders? The whole question of divorce is a difficult one. It deserves denunciation, and it gets it. It may be an unmixed evil; and then, again, it may not. But certainly nothing would tend surer to support the notion that it isn't than the citation of Parisian divorce statistics. It might be easily retorted that the wonder is there are even twelve divorces a year in Paris.

COL. CASH, of South Carolina, noted as a duelist, if for nothing else, is taking a new departure politically. He says he is a democrat, but that he has left the Bourbon democracy because of its methods. In his state be avers:

state he avers:

The bosses have become so corrupt and savage that they have forfeited every claim upon decent, peace-loving, patriotic citizens. They have grossly violated every pledge made in 1876. They do not regard their most sacred oaths, nor have they any consideration for the rights of anybedy, and they are plunging the state into distress and ruin. Elections are an absolute farce. The whole machinery is in the hands of the Bourbons and any majority is invariably returned that is considered necessary, Violence is resorted to where fraud fails and the rioters know they will not be punished.

All of which is true. But there is a light

All of which is true. But there is a light in the dark picture, for Col. Cash says this infamy is wrought on the pretense that it is necessary to keep the negroes out of politics, but that as a matter of fact they don't have any chance at office, and that there is no race issue at all in the politics of the state. That leaves it simply, then as the old story of bossism waged against every one not in the "ring." This is a lesser evil than a proscription on ecount of color, but the latter indeed does not exist only because the "colored" portion have long ago been put down and are kept down. Any revolt against bossism is a move in the right direction and if Col. Cash's purposes are pure he should be encouraged. But he too will be confronted with the question of the negroe's political future in the south, or rather his political present, and that is a problem which we are free to confess is difficult to solve.

THE claims for rebate of taxes on tobacco nd its products, growing out of the recent nternal revenue act, will amount to about three and a half millions, while the total annual reduction of revenue from tobacco. snuff and cigars will probably be $36,000,000. We know of no possible statement of a result of legislation that ought to give a nation a broader and redder blush of shame than this. If that thirty-six millions had come off aff anything but liquor, the effect would have been the cheapening of something that at the most did no harm. But the use of tobacco in any form is a vice and nothing else. mild in some forms, gross in others, and cheapening the indulgence is just as wise as cheapening a drunkard's liquor. It is a contribution from the pockets of the whole nation to the profits of big tobacco manufacturers. The consumer gets no benefit from it that is perceptible to his pocket or his comfort. The small dealer gets little more. The Lorillard class are the eneficiaries. Instead of a reduction the tobacco tax should have had an addition to raise it to the level of the rate of '79, and the reduction, should have come with larger sweeps upon other taxes. That thirty-six millions of waste, duly saved and distributed among a dozen articles of general use would have made a reduction in the weekly expense of every household. As it is it heapens nothing, not even to the human tobacce worm, while it leaves articles of real value as dear as ever. To cheapen tobacco and liquor, and leave necessaries, or decencies at least, as costly as ever or little re duced, in order that the vices may be pampered, is about the worst legislation that ver an intelligent people was fooled into. thing else the cheaper by it, is the scheme of revenue that meets at once the require ments of morality and the treasury. Positions in Railroad Travel. There has been some discussion as to whether a person lying in a sleeping car hould place his feet toward the locomotive should place his feet toward the locomotive or the reverse. The matter was discussed in the British Medical Journal nearly a year ago, and the weight of evidence seemed in favor of pointing the feet to the locomotive. The more important question—as effecting a larger number of people—of sitting with the back to the locomotive was also discussed, and the habit was universally condemned, and cases given in support of the opinion. One man who travelled about 48,000 miles a year in that position became extremely fil with a nervous affection, and got well after he had given up the habit. His doctor believes that persons who travel much by rail lie had given up the maple. His doctor be-lieves that persons who travel much by rail should "take all sorts of positions." But he considers that the hurry and worry caused by efforts not to miss trains is productive of more evil than all other causes.

David P. Holloway.

Hon. David P. Holloway, ex-commissioner of patents, whose serious filness was mentioned some days ago, died, vesterday, in Washington, in his seventy-fourth year. His health had been failing since the death of his youngest child and daughter, Mamie, last December, his first complication being faity degeneration of the heart, which was followed by kidney troubles, with symptoms of dropsy, and finally paralysis came and relieved his sufferings, which he had borne with equasimity and patience.

Mr. Holloway was born at Waynesville, Warren county, Ohio, December 6, 1800, but soon removed with his father to the vicinity of Richmond, where, in 1824, he began work as an apprentice in the office of the Public Ledger, then published by Edward 8. of the Richmond Palladium, and occupied the position for thirty years, in the meantime holding many public offices.

In 1843 he was elected a member of the state legislature, and the year following state senator, which office he held for six years. He served as presidential elector in the campaigns of 1848 and 1852. In 1849 he was appointed by President Taylor examiner of land offices. In 1854 he was elected representative in congress, and in 1861 he was appointed commissioner of patents which office he resigned in 1855 because he was not in accord with the administration of Andrew office he resigned in 1865 because he was not in accord with the administration of Andrew Johnson. From 1852 to 1861, Mr. Holloway, in addition to his duties as editor of the Palladium, edited and published in connection with his now venerable partner, B. W. Davis, esq., who still survives him, the Indiana Farmer, then the only agricultural paper in the state. They sold the Farmer when Mr. Holloway was appointed commissioner of patents. He always took a deep interest in farming matters, and while in congress acted as chairman of the comin congress acted as chairman of the com-mittee on agriculture. For the first time that committee rose into prominence, and Mr. Holloway secured from congress the first appropriation of any magnitude for the purchase of seeds and the benefit of agriculture. It was out of this fund that sorghum sugarcane seed was purchased, and that branch of Industry introduced into this country. For many years he was connected with the Wayne county and state agricultural societies, of both of which he was president.

Since leaving the patent office, Mr. Holloway has practiced as a patent attorney. He was a member of the Society of Friends by birthright, and for many years an earnest advocate of temperance principles. Mr. Holloway was married Nov. 13, 1834, to Jane Ann Paulson, who died December 8, 1894, aged fifty-two years. He never married again. Their children were John M., (who died in 1874), William R., Dayton, (who died in 1888), Henry C., Allen T., Charles P., Sarah, (who died in 1881), and Mary Anna, (who died in 1882). I first noticed him by encountering his bright eyes fixed full upon me. As I looked at him he beckoned to me. I went over. His eyes were very brilliant, as though they were the only live things in his dead face. Tilden then talked as clearly as he ever did, but I was so pained with his deathly look and feeble appearance that it seemed a perfect mockery to congratulate him upon his restoration to health, and to talk with him about the future. The old man has great will, however, and as long as he lives will have great influence in the affairs of this state.

A deaf and dumb newsman on the Long Island railroad, known for years to residents of the Island, and usually called by the train hands Dummy, had been suffering from an aching tooth. A day or two ago at Jamaica te tied a string around the tooth and, just before a train left the station, he tied the other end of the string to the rear car. When the train started he ran along behindlit until it had gathered headway, when he drooped on his knees. The train carried the tooth to Long Island City. An expression of pain on his face was followed by one of delight when he knew the cause of his trouble was gone.

Washington's Birthplace,
The birthplace of George Washington is at the inner side of a peninsula having for its water boundary Mattox creek, the Potomacriver, and Pope's creek. The house in which Washington was born stood on a projection which is now called Burnt House Point. A road leads down to Bridge Creek Landing, a little less than two miles distant, where, it is probable, a steamboat wharf will be built, in order that the spot may be more easily accessible.

It is the natives themselves that more especially attract the stranger's attention.

There's the head of the family, prodigiously tall and ungainly—quite interesting objects they are, too, with their thousand and one mental peculiarities. The children also, always a dozen or fifteen of them, ragged, sorrowful urchins of all sizes and shapes, And the dogs-bless me, I came near forgetting to mention the dogs—great they are in number, and so thin and bony that it is in number, and so this and bony that it is little wonder that the greater portion of their existence is spent lying before the old fire-place, never changing their positions except when compelled to do so. A striking sense of willingness seems to overshadow the whole group, as they squat about the dingy room in all imaginable attitudes, each wrapped up in the narrow confines of his own little self and the quid of dogleaf tobacco. Tobacco is their only solace—a home-made artisle it is, too, meanest and vilest stuff to be found anywhere in the land. The men chew it, the women chew it, the children chew it, and even the dogs chew it. It's chew, chew, spit, spit, squirt, squirt, from morning till night and from night till morning, and if you are not cautious enough to get off at a set of distance row will be convenient to dode

Corn bread and bacon constitute the bill of Corn bread and bacon constitute the bill of fare, and in the meagre compass of its life-sustaining qualities it combines all—and the only—deficacies of the season, never out of season. It's corn bread and bacon for breakfast, corn bread and bacon for only that is all the year round. To moralize upon the ingredients of that corn bread would be as hazardous as to attempt to solve the mysteries that cluster around that world-famous dish, boarding house hash. The bacon, too, is an article worthy of comment, inasmuch as it imparts a sort of flavor to the corn bread, and thereby renders it the more palatable. You first discover it in huge slabs of fat, with little or no lean in its composition, and almost completely encrusted in the accumulated filth of weeks and months. One glance at it would make a health officer sick; but to eat it! oh, horrors! The corn bread, being baked to the proper extent, is placed upon a stump outside the door to cool, while the dogs form a circle round, lick their chops in silent hunger, and bestow wistful glances upon the, to them, delictious morsel. Slices of bacon are then placed in the great iron pot, where they them, delicious morsel. Slices of bacon are then placed in the great fron pot, where they sizzle and splutter until finally resolved into a number of little dried-up chips floating about upon a miniature sea of slimy grease. This horrible mess—grease and all—in conjunction with the corn bread, is eagerly devoured by these rapacious natives, and on this meager diet, strange to say, but nevertheless true, they manage somehow to keep the sands of life in motion. Truly one-half of the world knows not how-the other half lives.

"There are fully fige thousand men now looking for positions as bookkeepers in the city," said the manager of a well established city," said the manager of a well established employment company, which advertises almost daily for men to fill this or that position. "They are men of all ages, but mostly between twenty-five and thirty-five. But I should say that fully ten per cent. of them are men who are well on with or already beyond the middle age. These are the hurdest to find places for. They are too much set in their own notions of business to adapt themselves readily to others' notions, and then those who want bookkeepers prefer younger men who can grow with the business. These elderly applicants, have, as a general thing, seen better times. Many of them have been in business for themselves and failed, or have business for themselves and failed, or have been by accident thrown out of good positions in which they failed to lay something by for 'the rainy day.' My estimate of the number of would-be bookkeepers is a careful one, and is based upon a long experience in this line of business. There are 23,000 bookkeepers employed in the city, and more than a quarter as many more unemployed. You would be attonished to learn the number of able-bodied men who could work at a hundred different things if they had a mind to, but who will persist in either keeping books or keeping idle. business for themselves and failed, or have they had a mind to, but who will persist in either keeping books or keeping idle. Young men with a lifetime ahead of them and the whole range of ordinary vocations to choose from, will hang around town for months and run into debt while waiting a chance to keep books. The time has gone by when good penmanship will necessarily insure a man a living. There are too many good penmen now, and I know for a fact that there are some business houses where expert penmanship is discounted and where one who is able to write too well is suspected of incapacity in other respects. Of suspected of incapacity in other respects. Of course I don't pretend to indorse this, but it is one of the factors which prevent clever penmen from at once securing employment. A boiler never explodes from undue pressure, for the simple reason that it is impossible to make all its parts of 'equal strength. AMUSEMENTS. ENGLISH'S

There is a story at his own expense, which the late Prof. Moses Stuart Phelps used to tell with great glee. In the days when he was a graduate student at New Haven, he took a walk, one morning, with Prof. Newton, a man who lives in the world of mathematics, and simply exists in the common world of ordinary things. Prof. Newton, as is his habit, started off on the discussion of an abstruse problem. As the professor went deeper and deeper, Mr. Phelps's mind wandered farther and farther from what was being said. At last Mr. Phelps's stimid was called back to his companion by the professor's winding up with: "Which, you see, gives us 'x'." "Does it?" asked Mr. Phelps, thinking that in politeness he oughtito reply something. "Why, doesn't it?" excitedly exclained the professor, alarmed at the possibility that a flaw had been detected in his calculations. Quickly his mind ran back over the work. There had indeed been a mistake. "You are right, Mr. Phelps, you are right," almost shouted the professor. "It doesn't give us 'x,' it gives us 'y.'" And from that hour Prof. Newton looked upon Mr. Phelps as a mathematical prodigy. He was the first man who had ever caught the professor tripping. "And so," Mr. Phelps used often to add, with his own peculiar smile, in telling the story, "I achieved a reputation for knowing a thing I hate. It's the way many reputations are made in this superficial world." OPERA HOUSE. The largest, best and most popular Theater in is given by using Brown's IRON BITTERS. In the Winter it strengthens and warms the system; in the Spring it enriches the blood and conquers disease; in the Summer it gives tone to the nerves and digestive organs; in the Fall it enables the system to stand the shock of sudden changes.

In no way can disease be so surely prevented as by keeping the system in perfect condition. Brown's IRON BITTERS ensures perfect health through the changing seasons, it disarms the danger from impure water and miasmatic air, and it prevents Consump-tion, Kidney and Liver Disease, &c.

Close of the Sængerfest.

The Sængerfest closed yesterday with the pienic at Garfield park. Saturday afternoon an excellent concert was given to a very poor house, the slim attendance being probably due to the high prices, which were not lowered in time for the public to be generally advised of the change. The summer night's festival at Mayer's park, Saturday evening was attended by a large number of people, but the cold weather interferred with its enjoyment. The park was made very beautiful by the myriad of colored lanterns, while fireworks set off at short intervals lent brilliance to the scene. Yesterday's picnic was successful in all respects. The attendance was large. Speeches were made by Messrs. Bieler, Rappaport, Emmerich, Ernestinoff and others President Bieler read a letter from Governor Porter, enclosing a check to help defray the expenses of the feet, which evoked much applause. The Evansville Liederkranz last evening serenaded Gov. Porter and Mayor Grubbs, the members stating, by way of apology for calling Sunding, that they did not wish to leave the city without paying their respects to both gentlemen.

Base Ball Notes. Close of the Sængerfest.

The ball game Saturday between the Indianapolis and Baltimore clubs resulted, in favor of the latter by the score of 5 to 3. Considering the fact that McKeon, Dorgan and O'Leary did not play, this was a first-rate showing. Only one run was earned, and that one by the Indianapolis. Murphy pitched for Indianapolis and eight men struck out on him. Every error made by the home club seemed to be a fatal one. Kerins led the batting for Indianapolis.

The Indianapolis club defeated the Excelsior nine at Vincennes yesterday by the score of 19 to 7. Indianapolis earned eight runs, made twenty hits and eight errors, while Excelsior earned two runs, made eleven hits and seven errors. Two-base hits were made by Kerins and Callahan, of Indianapolis, and Strauss and Alvord, of Vincennes; three-basers by Kerins, Callahan and Murphy, of Indianapolis, and home runs by McKeon and Murphy, of Indianapolis. The pitchers were Veach and Crowell. The feature of the game was Murphy's surprising strength with the stick.

The Indianapolis club will play in Fort Wayne to-day and to-morrow. There will be no games at the ball park until Friday, when the Baltimores will again appear. The Journal nine was defeated at Dan-

Mrs. Lane has just received a fine medal-lion of her husband, the late Colonel Henry S. Lane. It is life size, alto relievo, and was executed in fine Carrara marble from a pho-tograph taken in Washington in 1865. It was made in Rome by the eminent American sculptor, Franklin Simmons, and is said to be a faithful portratt of the original. The me-dallion is to be handsomely framed in plush and placed upon an easel.—[Crawfordsville Journal.

The exciting feature of the Aurora fair was the contest for the equestrian prizes by ladies. The county prizes were awarded; First, Miss Hill; second, Miss Johnston; third, Mrs. Thomason. For the grand prize—the silver set worth $136—there were nine contestants, and the trial lasted for over since the prize of the p hour. Finally the ringmaster approached Miss Mary Jack, of Warsaw, and tied the blue ribbon on her right arm, whereupon the audience arose and cheered most enthusias-

MARKET REPORT.

Indianapolis Wholesale Market-Daily

Mercantile life does not give out many bril-liant scintillations not rithstanding the firmer tone of the staple markets. Dealers fight shy of anything resembling speculation and have learned not to be driven into over buying through plausible stories. There is no fiction in regard to better prices for canned corn and peaches as well as small fruits. Tomatoes remain in doubt, yet it is impossible for them to go lower. Sugars are firmly held and coffees are strong, but the reasons for such strength are all of an artificial nature. A fine lot of peache was exposed for sale at the commistion houses to-day. Yellow Jersey Crowfords sold at $2.50 per bushel crate; the Indiana peaches was held at about $1.00 per the third bushel with much diversity of price for different grades. MR. ENGLISH ABROAD. He was Entertained in Wasi and New York-Visit from visit to the eastern cities, and a News representative gathered from a talk with him this morning that the financial matters in his charge are making good progress and that histrip had been very enjoyable and satisfaccharge are making good progress and that histrip had been very enjoyable and satisfactory. At Washington city he found his old friend John C. New and other members of the "Indiana Brigade" at their posts of duty, but the city was generally deserted by high officials and visitors, and had a lonely look every way. He was honored with a dinner at the Arlington with and upon the invitation of Postmaster-general Gresham, the only representative of the president's cabinet then in Washington. In New York he was honored with a dinner at Delmonico's by a party of prominent bankers, and was called on by General Hancock and other distinguished gentlemen. He also spent a delightful afternoon on Governor's Island at the residence of General McClure, who is on General Hancock's staff, and whose wife is Mr. English's cousin. The wife of Doctor Norvin Green, of New York, the well-known president of the Western Union telegraph company, is also a cousin of Mr. English. Mr. English asserts that he is out of active polities and out to stay, and that the exchange of visits between General Hancock and himself was entirely social and has no political significance whatever.

Mr. English can talk politics when he wants to, but he has the good sense not to mix up politics with business, as the newspaper reporters found out who attempted to interview him upon political subjects upon the occasion of his late visit. The National Republican, of Washington city, said editorfally, and rather spitefully:

"Hon, William H. English, of Indiana, is not in Washington on a political errand. Mr. English is not a porker, and he knows when he has enough. He knows he has enjoyed a plenteous sufficiency of politics. He is in Washington on business, and it would be safe to say he will not give up anything during his stay in town—not even cheap talk."

The attempt to pump him in New York was equally abortive. The Graphic says:

win not even cheap talk."

The attempt to pump him in New York was equally abortive. The Graphic says:

"Mr. W. H. English, of Indianapolis, democratic vice-president in 1880, arrived at the Leland house last night. In reply to the inquiries of a Graphic reporter, yesterday, relative to the political situation in Indiana, and as to his views on national issues, Mr. English said: 'I do not wish to be interviewed, and therefore decline to speak on the subject to which you refer. I am simply a plain citizen here on business, and have nothing to say that would interest the public.' It is understood that the main object of Mr. English's visit here is in connection with the reorganized First National bank of Indianapolis, which was saved from a collapse through the timely financial aid extended by him."

A New and Phenomenal Horse.

The sporting fraternity is in a ferment over a new Judiana horse that promises to outtrot any Hoosier horse-fiesh on the track, in fact has already done so. This new and valuable animal is a six year old brown stallion, and he comes from Noblesville. His owner, John Martin is a wagon smith of that place, and suddenly finds himself in the possession of a fortune. A few days ago D. R. Brown, of this city, saw the horse trot and offered $5,000 cash for him. It was the first time that the owner realized that he had the best horse on the Indiana turf, but he knew a good thing when it was pointed out, and since Brown's offer $7,000, $9,000 and now $10,000 have been planked down in vain before Martin's eyes. The history and training of the horse will almost cause a revolution in the jockey business. Six years ago Martin reluctantly accepted an old mare in pay for some work done. From this unpromising nag the colt in question was foaled. Martin sold the mare for $100, and for several years has been driving the colt to a buggy in his dally business. All this while he stabled the animal in a rickety old shed, and in many ways showed that he did not know what sort of oiled lightning he was stabling. A few turns, privately, on a race track led Martin to believe that he might venture to enter a county fair with some promise of success; but when he applied at Noblesville and elsewhere he was hooted out. Last week he was admitted to a county fair in northern Indiana, and to everybody's surprise captured the prize with ease. Last week, there being nobody to enter the Noblesville race, Martin was told that if he could beat 2:30 with his old brute he might have the stake, Without any preparation, he drove into the ring and accomplished a mile in 2:24.

Horsemen say this phenomenal horse can make 2:16 without an effort. Parties in this city already have a $5,000 bet that he will beat Hare's Hambrino (with a 2:16 record) at the coming Louisville races. Martin has been using the horse carelessly and he ful if he ever was sponged or petted or jockied. When heated he had been tied up in a fence corner and left to cool off, and yet has flourished, and to-day is believed to be the best horse in Indiana. Dr. Brown, learning the history of the horse, went up to Noblesville, hunted out, the old mare which foaled the horse, bought her for $100, and two days later, on the reputation of her son, sold her for $600.

son, sold her for $600.

Busy Days in the Fire Department,
A. J. Burgett's carpenter shop, 32 West
Sou th street, was slightly damaged by fire Saturday afternoon. In the evening there was a small blaze in Jim Carter's saw-mill, on Lincoln avenue, and on yesterday the department had a run to Enos B. Reed's residence, 493 North Illinois street, by a fire which originated in a sparrow's nest under the eaves and spread to the roof. Damage $25. The cottage, 366 Olive street, owned by Dr. Wagner, and occupied by Mr. Haverstack, was destroyed early this morning, together with the property immediately adjoining, owned and occupied by Mrs. Anna Mather and Otto Galish. The origin is attributed to a defective fiue, and the flames had a good start before the department was alarmed, owing to the fact that the interested parties first busied themselves in securing their household goods. The loss will foot up $2,000, partly insured. The alarm at 6:10 this moning came from 227 East Market street, in the basement of the residence occupied by Michael Scully. The fire originated among some clothing, and the damage did not exceed $10.

BEAN AND THEAT'S OFENING OF FALL AND WINTER PABRICS.

The twenty-fourth semi-annual opening of gentlemen's fall and winter styles is in progress to-day, at Egan & Treat's with even a larger interest and attendance than last year, which was by far the largest up to that time. One feature of the present opening is the number of out-of-town visitors, not only the bloods of the surrounding towns of the state like Richmond, Lafayette, Terre Haute, etc., but many business men from all parts of the state who have come to place a different estimate upon the importance of complying with the reasonable requirements of fashion in gent's apparel.

Mr. Thos. P. Egan was this morning solicited for an interview and led off in a general comment on the state of trade. "There is," he says, "a decided increase not only in the variety of styles in cut, but also of patterns in goods."

variety of styles in cht, but also or patterns in goods."

Said he, you can see for yourself as to the goods (pointing to the groaning tables and racks.) The quantity of goods is nearly double that we have ever before shown, although the reign of cheap goods is well nigh over. There is a vast increase in the attention paid to dress—a more correct and critical public taste. The general prosperity has enabled more people to consult their tastes, and with it has come the discovery that after all it is economy in the long run to get the best.

all it is economy in the long run to get the best.

Q.—Now for some of the changes you speak of in style of cut?

A.—Well, for one thing, the long-waisted cutaway coat is rapidly disappearing, and will be but little worn the ensuing season. All frock coats will be made with waists shorter and skirts longer than heretofore.

Q.—What about sleeves?

A.—They will be smaller for all kinds of coats, both at elbows and cuffs.

Q.—What will be most worn?

A.—In fancy and plain goods three and four button cutaway frocks will be very popular. Sack coats will show the usual demand in the different styles with a tendency to longer cut than last season.

Q.—What about pantaloons?

A.—About the same as last spring, with a tendency to be a little straighter, both at knee and bottom, and also a slight increase in size. Vests will be all cut short.

Q.—Tell me all about overcoats.

A.—The styles are single and double-breasted sacks, with tendency a little shorter,

New York, September 10.—Three's, 1084; 44's, 119:14; 4's, 1194; Pacific 6's, 95, 129 bid.

Money is easy at 222 1-2 per cent. Frime mercantile paper, 54:664; per cent. Bur silver, 109%. Exchange quiet at 48:14 for long, 485 for sight. States dull. Governments steady. Railways quiet and irregular except for West Shor's firsts, which were active at 74:4574% Stocks, strong and higher. Since 11:15 o'clock a.m., large purchases made at decline. The favorable change is due to more encouracing advices from the west in regard to the corn crop and supporting orders from the leaders. The advance in prices ranged from 4 to 14. Northwest, Central Pacific, L. & N. and Western Union leading.
